

NDIS

“Under Resourced”

MEDIA RELEASE: July 28th, 2014

If there was any doubt now it's official.

The Federal Government appears to be deliberately under resourcing NDIS to slow the rollout.

Given the enormous stress and distress in the disability sector this is not appropriate. People need help now.

It is not hard to hire or reassign a heap of public servants to do timely assessments for NDIS.

The link below from today's Adelaide Advertiser confirms what we have long warned about at Disability Speaks.

The National Disability Insurance Agency is purposefully not delivering NDIS at the agreed schedule and the Federal Government is getting a situational delay by under resourcing NDIS.

On any scale this is not acceptable and is avoidable.

Disability Speaks calls on the Federal Government to take immediate action to address this shortcoming.

We strongly suggest that you do everything you can to circulate and publicise this poor strategy and outcome.
